INTRODUCTION

Online Safety is a safeguarding issue and all members of the school community have a duty to be aware of Online Safety at all times, to know the required procedures and to act on them.

This document aims to put into place effective management systems and arrangements to maximise the educational and social benefit that can be obtained by exploiting the benefits and opportunities by using ICT, whilst minimising any associated risks. It describes actions that should be put in place to redress any concerns about child welfare and safety as well as how to protect children, young people and staff from risks and infringements.

The Head Teacher or, in their absence, the authorised member of staff for Online Safety has the ultimate responsibility for safeguarding and promoting the welfare of pupils in their care. This policy complements and supports other relevant school and Trust policies.

The purpose of internet use in school is to help raise educational standards, promote pupil achievement, and support the professional work of staff as well as enhance the school's management information and business administration systems.

The internet is an essential element in 21st Century life for education, business and social interaction and the school has a duty to provide children and young people with quality access as part of their learning experience.

A risk assessment is carried out before children and young people are allowed to use new technology in schools and associated settings.

ETHOS

It is the duty of the school to ensure that every child and young person in its care is safe. The same 'staying safe' outcomes and principles outlined in the Every Child Matters agenda apply equally to the 'virtual' or digital world. This expectation also applies to any voluntary, statutory and community organisations that make use of the school's ICT facilities and digital technologies.

Safeguarding and promoting the welfare of pupils is embedded into the culture of the school and its everyday practice and procedures.

All staff have a responsibility to support Online Safety practices in school and all pupils need to understand their responsibilities in the event of deliberate attempts to breach Online Safety protocols.

Online Safety is a partnership concern and is not limited to school premises, school equipment or the school day. Bullying, harassment or abuse of any kind via digital technologies or mobile phones will not be tolerated and complaints of cyber bullying are dealt with in accordance with the school's Behaviour and Relationships Policy and the anti-bullying policy.

Complaints related to child protection are dealt with in accordance with the school's Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy.

Digital Council/ 360° Safe

- The school is committed to reviewing and developing our online safety practice in line with changes and developments in the online world. In order to keep up with this we are working toward the 360° Safe Mark and using it as an ongoing self-review tool.
- As part of work towards the 360° Safe Mark, Raglan participates in the Childnet Digital Leaders programme.
- The council is comprised of: Digital leaders; Online Safety lead; Computing leads and a member of onsite IT support team.
- The Digital Council is integral in delivering Online Safety Messages; creating an Online Agreement and completing the Online Safety Action Plan.
- They supplement the curriculum with messages in peer to peer assemblies.

Safer Internet Day

- Raglan is committed to educating all children about the risks and rewards of having a digital footprint and participate in the annual Safer Internet Day, in order to raise the awareness of this.

TEACHING and LEARNING - Benefits of internet use for education

- The internet is a part of the statutory curriculum and a necessary tool for staff and children and young people and benefits education by allowing access to world - wide educational resources including art galleries and museums as well as enabling access to specialists in many fields for pupils and staff.
- Access to the internet supports educational and cultural exchanges between students world-wide and enables pupils to participate in cultural, vocational, social and leisure use in libraries, clubs and at home.
- The internet supports professional development for staff through access to national developments, educational materials, good curriculum practice and exchange of curriculum and administration data with the Local Authority and DFE.
- The internet improves access to technical support, including remote management of networks, supports communication with support services, professional associations and colleagues as well as allowing access to, and inclusion in, government initiatives.
- The internet offers opportunities for mentoring pupils and providing peer support for them and their teachers.
- Internet use is planned to enrich and extend learning activities and access levels are reviewed to reflect the curriculum requirements and age of the children and young people.
- Children and young people are educated in the effective use of the internet in research, including the skills of knowledge location, retrieval and evaluation.
- Children and young people are encouraged to question what they read and to seek confirmation of matters of fact from more than one source. They are taught research techniques, including the use of subject catalogues and search engines and encouraged to question the validity, currency and origins of information. Children and young people are also taught that copying material is worth little without an appropriate commentary demonstrating the selectivity used and evaluating the material's significance.

Assessing Risks

- Emerging technologies offer the potential to develop teaching and learning tools but need to be evaluated to assess risks, establish the benefits and to develop good practice. The senior leadership team should be aware that technologies such as mobile phones with wireless internet access can bypass school filtering systems and allow a new route to undesirable material and communications.
- In common with other media such as magazines, books and video, some material available through the Internet is unsuitable for pupils. The school will take all reasonable precautions to ensure that users access only appropriate material. However, due to international scale and linked nature of Internet content, it is not always possible to guarantee that unsuitable material may never appear on a school computer. Neither the school nor the local authority can accept liability for the material accessed, or any consequences of Internet access.
- Emerging technologies will be examined for educational use and a risk assessment will be carried out before use in school is allowed and methods to identify, assess and minimise risks will be reviewed regularly.
- The use of computer systems without permission or for inappropriate purposes could constitute a criminal offence under the Criminal Misuse Act 1990 and will be dealt with accordingly.
- The Head Teacher will ensure that the Online Safety Policy is implemented and compliance with the policy is monitored.
- Access to live streaming, gaming , social media or chat rooms is not permitted in school
- Access to any websites involving gambling, pornography or financial scams is strictly forbidden and will be dealt with accordingly.
